A mindful way to arrive fully and set your intentions before three transformative days ahead.

1:30 – 2:30 p.m. Opening General Session: The Leadership League: Rise of the Change Makers

Yanick Hicks | Maxwell Leadership

Who will lead tomorrow if we don't start building them today? The aging services sector is navigating staff turnover, rising care demands, and a widening leadership gap — but the solution is already in your hands. Great leaders don't just make an impact; they multiply it by developing the next generation. Rooted in John Maxwell's Developing the Leaders Around You, this session helps you identify hidden leadership potential, mentor across generations, and foster a culture where leadership is not just a title but a calling — driven by impact, influence, and inspiration. You'll leave with fresh strategies, practical tools, and the confidence to unleash tomorrow's leaders today.

2:30 – 3:30 p.m. Resident Panel Discussion

Who better to define what it means to be a changemaker than the residents we serve? This powerful panel brings together residents from across Colorado's senior living communities to share their perspectives on what great care looks like, what inspires them, and how the people around them are making a difference every day. Hear stories of resilience, connection, and transformation—and leave with renewed purpose. Whether you're a frontline caregiver, an administrator, or an advocate, this session is a reminder of why it all matters.

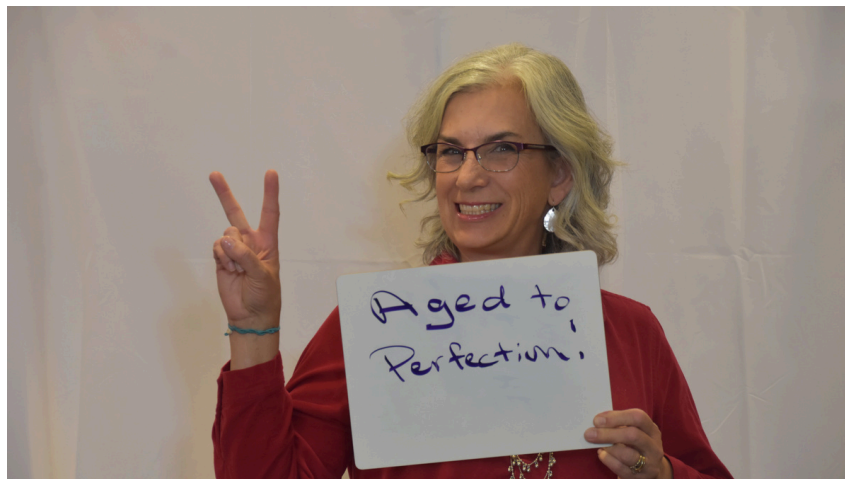

3:30 – 4:00 p.m. Afternoon Break

4:00 – 5:00 p.m. Changemaker Roundtables: Real-World Insights from Colorado Senior Living Leaders

Some of the best ideas in senior living don't come from the stage — they come from the person sitting next to you. Changemaker Roundtables is a dynamic, small-group discussion session designed to help Colorado senior living leaders tackle real operational challenges through candid peer conversation. In a time when teams are stretched thin and the pressure to perform has never been higher, this session offers something rare: a dedicated space to learn directly from colleagues navigating the same terrain. Participants join themed discussion tables on topics that matter most right now — from workforce and leadership to technology, culture change, and beyond — led by experienced moderators from within Colorado's senior living community. Walk away with fresh perspectives, immediately applicable ideas, and connections that extend well beyond the conference.

5:00 – 6:00 p.m. Welcome Reception — Sponsored by Boulder Associates

Your conference experience starts here. Join your Colorado senior living colleagues for cocktails and appetizers in the stunning setting of Makoto, the Grand Hyatt Vail's signature sushi restaurant. Whether you're catching up with familiar faces or meeting new colleagues for the first time, this is the perfect way to ease into three days of learning, inspiration, and connection. Relax, recharge, and get ready for an incredible conference ahead.

Tuesday, May 12

8:00 – 9:00 a.m. Breakfast and Exhibit Networking

Poster presentations are on display in the general session room throughout the day — browse and vote for your favorites in the conference app!

Changemaker Poster Display — Have a bold idea to share? Submit a poster — open to members and business partners. Space is limited to 10 posters, filled on a first-come, first-served basis. Submit by April 18: www.surveymonkey.com/r/D6DD7XL. Posters should be printed at 36" x 48" (portrait). Easels provided.

9:00 – 10:00 a.m. Becoming Awesome: Building a Champion Mindset Cam Awesome, U.S. Boxing Champion & Keynote Speaker

What does it take to go from a bullied kid to a world-class champion — and what can that journey teach us about leading through adversity?

In this high-energy keynote, Cam Awesome shares the hard-won lessons from his rise to the top of competitive boxing, revealing a powerful framework for turning failure into fuel. Through humor and passion, Cam shows how anyone—and any organization—can develop a champion mindset.

Cam's message is simple but transformative: failure isn't the opposite of success, it's the path to it. He'll show your team how to set audacious goals, build unshakeable confidence, and create a culture where people feel safe to take risks, try new things, and bring their best every day.

10:00 – 10:20 a.m. Book Signing and Exhibit Networking Break

10:20 – 11:20 a.m. Education Sessions

Session 101 Building a Proactive Approach to Behavioral Health: A Framework for Senior Living Staff

Louis Scarantino | Louis Scarantino Enterprises

Most senior living teams are trained to respond to behavioral health crises — but what if you could prevent them? This practical session gives staff at every level a concrete framework to shift from reactive crisis management to proactive well-being support — with tools you can put to work immediately.

Session 102 Utilizing a Data Dashboard

Jordan Barry | Kavod Senior Life

Gut instinct and observation will only take you so far. What happens when you pair them with the right data?

Kavod Senior Life, a Denver-based nonprofit senior living community, has built a culture of data-driven decision making through a deceptively simple tool: a monthly data dashboard that gives leadership a clear, visual picture of organizational health across every department.

In this session, Jordan Barry shares how Kavod developed, refined, and uses its data dashboard to track key performance indicators (KPIs), spot patterns, identify issues early, and drive meaningful action — all without needing a dedicated data team or complex technology.

Session 103 JAWS: Jump Start Aging Workforce Solutions

Penny Whitney | JAWS | Cassandra Evans | Myron Stratton Home Winfield House Assisted Living

Colorado's long-term care workforce shortage demands creative solutions — and JAWS is delivering one.

By partnering high school students with LTC communities through hands-on, relationship-driven learning, JAWS has generated 4,000+ hours of work-based experience across 7 El Paso County school districts. Students say it best: the highlight is always the relationships they build with residents and staff. Hear from founder Penny Whitney and LeadingAge Colorado member Cassandra Evans of Winfield House Assisted Living on the real workforce ROI of intergenerational programming — and leave with practical ideas for bringing this model to your own community.

Tuesday, May 12

11:20 a.m. – 12:50 p.m. Lunch & Exhibit Networking:

1:00 – 2:00 p.m. Education Sessions

Session 201 IDT Panel on Technology and Teamwork: Data-Driven Collaboration

Amanda Odom, Denise Gee & Layalee Abusaleh | Qsource

Great outcomes in long-term care don't happen in silos — they happen when the right people are working from the same data.

This interactive panel, led by Qsource's team of compliance, clinical, and quality improvement experts, demonstrates how a truly integrated Interdisciplinary Team (IDT) transforms quality, performance, and regulatory readiness. Using real case studies, the panel shows how connecting clinical, dietary, behavioral, social, and pharmaceutical insights helps teams identify risks early, design effective Performance Improvement Projects, and prevent repeat deficiencies.

Attendees will leave with a practical five-step IDT framework — plus ready-to-use tools including an IDT Integration Checklist, QAPI Data Mapping Template, and PIP Planning Worksheet.

Better teamwork. Better data. Better outcomes.

Session 202 Leading In/Security

Cindy Tanner | CaseCorrect LLC

Every leader has insecurities. The ones who don't let them run the show are the ones who change things.

This honest, impactful session examines how personal insecurities quietly shape leadership decisions, communication styles, and organizational culture — often without us even realizing it. Through relatable stories, practical psychology, and guided reflection, Cindy Tanner helps leaders identify their insecurity triggers and interrupt the patterns before they do damage.

Using short reflective exercises, live demonstrations, and a rapid In/Security Reaction Tool, this highly interactive session gives leaders immediately usable skills to respond rather than react — and to lead with clarity, transparency, and influence.

Session 203 PR Preparedness: How to Be Ready Before the Headlines Hit

Rhonda DeMeno Willis & Dianne Macheers | The Ridge

In today's digital world, a single incident can become a headline before you've had a chance to respond. For senior living operators, that headline can shape public perception for years.

This session equips leaders with a proactive public relations strategy — so when a crisis hits, you're leading with confidence instead of scrambling to catch up. Through real-world case studies and interactive exercises, you'll learn how to identify vulnerabilities, craft clear and empathetic messaging, and establish rapid-response protocols before you ever need them.

2:00 – 2:20 p.m. Afternoon Break and Exhibit Networking

Tuesday, May 12

2:20 – 3:20 p.m. Education Sessions

Session 301 The Age of Change: Defying the Fall — Rethinking Frailty and Fall Prevention in Aging Jeffrey Guild | Optimize Physical Therapy & Wellness

Falls are not inevitable. Frailty is not a fate. It's time to stop accepting decline as the default.

This energizing session challenges the outdated mindset that aging means inevitable physical decline — and gives senior living leaders the tools to build a culture where strength, balance, and vitality are the norm. Jeffrey Guild makes the case that two powerful, evidence-backed levers are within every organization's control: strength and balance training, and early frailty intervention.

The science is clear: combined strength and balance training is the single most effective intervention for reducing falls — outperforming every other commonly used approach. And frailty, often dismissed as abstract, is actually a measurable, controllable condition with warning signs that can be spotted months in advance.

Session 302 Enhancing Employee Experience to Drive Retention Robert Baker & Jenna Correia | Covenant Living of Colorado

What does it actually take to make employees feel valued — and what happens to retention when you get it right?

Covenant Living of Colorado achieved the best year-over-year improvement in employee satisfaction across their entire 20-campus national organization in 2025. In this session, Robert Baker and Jenna Correia share three years of employee satisfaction data alongside the practical, people-first strategies that moved the needle.

From daily leadership huddles and revamped all-staff meetings to skip-level interviews and Sunshine Carts, their approach focuses on building a culture where connection, recognition, and transparency aren't just values on a wall — they're daily practices.

Session 303 Stop the Drip: Reclaim the Revenue You Didn't Know You Lost Mindy Whitworth | Bethesda Senior Living

Most senior living communities are losing 9–12% of annual revenue — not to market conditions, but to everyday internal processes that have gone unexamined for years.

Revenue leakage hides in plain sight: inconsistent sales follow-up, emotional discounting, delayed room readiness, under-coded care levels, unbilled services, and billing errors. In this session, Mindy Whitworth brings a provider-centered lens to one of the industry's least-discussed financial challenges — and delivers a practical framework to fix it.

Using real operational scenarios from across nonprofit and for-profit communities, attendees will work through a repeatable five-step model — See → Measure → Align → Execute → Sustain — to diagnose and correct leaks without adding staff or increasing marketing spend.

The session also spotlights the Executive Director's critical and often underutilized role as a revenue leader, with concrete examples of how ED engagement in the sales process improves conversion, shortens the sales cycle, and strengthens rate integrity.

Tuesday, May 12

3:30 – 4:30 p.m. Education Sessions

Session 401 AI in Senior Living: Real Wins, Real Risks, and a Live Safe-Use Demo Steven VanderVelde | ProviNET Solutions

AI is already transforming senior living operations — but are your teams using it safely?

This practical, non-technical session cuts through the hype to deliver what leaders actually need: real examples of AI working in senior living today, an honest look at the risks, and a live demonstration of safe, high-impact workflows you can start using immediately.

From operations and clinical support to HR, finance, and resident engagement, Steven VanderVelde shows where AI is delivering real results — then tackles the risks that don't get enough attention: deepfakes, hyper-personalized phishing, policy pitfalls, and the dangers of overreliance on AI outputs.

The session closes with a 20-minute live demo featuring prompt patterns, redaction techniques, and human-in-the-loop checks your team can put to work right away.

Session 402 Psychological Safety as a Changemaker Vennita Jenkins | Senior Housing Options

What if the single most powerful thing you could do for quality care, staff retention, and regulatory compliance was simply making it safe for people to speak up?

Psychological safety isn't a soft concept — it's a proven driver of team performance, resident well-being, and organizational resilience. In high-stress, highly regulated environments like senior living and home- and community-based services, the ability of staff to raise concerns without fear directly impacts outcomes at every level.

In this session, Vennita Jenkins guides participants through a research-based Four Stages Model of psychological safety — Inclusion, Learner, Contributor, and Challenger — using real-world examples from housing, assisted living, and interdisciplinary care teams. You'll learn how leaders at every level can shift culture through small, consistent behaviors that add up to transformational change.

Session 403 The Changing Senior Living Consumer Avery Lamphere | Creating Results

By 2030, every Baby Boomer will be over 65 — and they won't choose a senior living community the way their parents did.

Today's 65+ adults are working longer, living more diverse lifestyles, and expecting experiences that match their ambitions. Traditional marketing and sales approaches built around older assumptions about aging are losing their effectiveness — and communities that don't adapt will feel it in their occupancy numbers.

In this session, Jessica Ruhle unpacks the shifting behaviors and expectations of tomorrow's senior living consumer and shows you how to evolve your marketing and sales strategies to meet them where they are.

4:30 – 5:30 p.m. 'Changemakers' Networking Reception — Sponsored by Brinkmann Constructors

End your day the right way.

Step outside and unwind in the stunning Gore Zen Garden at the Grand Hyatt Vail for an evening of great conversation, fresh mountain air, and live music. This is your chance to reconnect with colleagues, meet new faces, and celebrate the changemakers in your midst — all against the breathtaking backdrop of the Vail mountains.

Wednesday, May 13

8:00 – 9:00 a.m. Breakfast and Roundtable Discussions

You've spent two days learning, connecting, and being inspired — now it's your turn to lead the conversation.

Breakfast Roundtables give attendees the opportunity to host their own 15-minute discussion on any topic relevant to Colorado's aging services community. With rotating tables every 15 minutes, you can visit up to four discussions over breakfast, gaining a variety of perspectives in a relaxed, informal setting.

Whether you want to share a success story, crowdsource a solution, or spark a conversation around something your organization is wrestling with, this is your platform.

Interested in hosting a table? Submit a brief proposal here by April 18: <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/FYFQBQD>
Topics can range from workforce and operations to culture, technology, resident experience, and beyond — if it matters to you, it probably matters to someone else in the room.

9:00 – 10:00 a.m. AI Panel Discussion

Artificial intelligence is no longer a future concept in senior living — it's already here. But how are Colorado providers actually using it, and what does it mean for your organization, your staff, and the residents you serve?

This candid panel brings together leaders from across the aging services sector to share real-world experiences with AI — what's working, what's not, and what's coming next. From clinical support and workforce tools to operations and resident engagement, the conversation will be practical, honest, and grounded in the realities of senior living.

Come ready to participate — this session is designed to be interactive, with audience engagement built in throughout.

Panelists will be announced shortly — check the conference app and leadingagecolorado.org for updates.

10:00 – 10:30 a.m. Changemaker Awards

Every day, extraordinary people across Colorado's senior living communities show up and make a difference — in the lives of residents, in their organizations, and in the field as a whole. This is their moment.

Before we close out the 2026 conference, we're proud to celebrate the Changemakers in our midst. This special recognition segment honors staff and residents nominated by their peers and organizations for the meaningful, lasting impact they are making in aging services. We'll also announce the top-rated poster presentations as voted by attendees via the conference app — celebrating the innovative research, best practices, and bold ideas shared by our community throughout the conference.

Nominations are open now through April 11! Submit your nomination today: www.surveymonkey.com/r/D6N5ZPR

Closing General Session: I Get To: Change Your Words, Change Your Life

Chris Cullen | Win Within

What if the most powerful change you could make as a leader started with two small words? In this energizing closing keynote, Chris Cullen shows how shifting from "I have to" to "I get to" can transform the way you lead, the way your team shows up, and the culture of your entire organization. Rooted in neuroscience and emotional intelligence, this session gives leaders and teams at every level practical tools to move from burnout and pressure to purpose, gratitude, and genuine engagement.

Through mindset reframes, real-world workplace scenarios, and interactive audience exercises, you'll leave with immediately applicable strategies for resilience, self-leadership, and creating the kind of ripple effects that make true changemakers. Meaningful transformations often start with a single shift in how you see your work. Leave inspired. Leave equipped. Leave ready to make your mark.
